RULES

- Any salaried, staff, syndicated or regularly published newspaper columnist, investigative reporter or feature writer who is not a previous winner is eligible for the award.
- Nominations may be based on a body of work but the nominee must have written material that appeared in a daily or weekly newspaper in the U.S. or Canada during 2018 which related to his or her humanitarian activities.
- Nominations may be submitted by a newspaper editor, managing editor, executive editor, publisher or community leader and must be signed. A community leader's nomination must include a letter of support from the entrant's newspaper. Writers may not nominate themselves.
- If no qualifying entry is received, method of selection may be made by the program coordinator.
- There is no limit on how many columnists from the same newspaper may be nominated, but each nomination requires a separate entry.
- The winner will be notified by May 1, 2019. The award will be presented at the annual NSNC conference. The winner is expected to attend.

Entries will consist of the following:

- A description, in 250 words or fewer, of the work done by the nominee to merit the award.
- A statement of supporting reasons for the nomination.
- Representative examples of the writings on which the nomination is based. These must be in the form of newspaper clips or photocopies. Website print-outs must show the date, writer and publication.

- Entry pages shall be no larger than 8 ½" by 11". Please do not use fancy, hardback binders. Staple the pages inside a letter-size manila file folder, with the nominee's name and newspaper on front, and the words, "Will Rogers Humanitarian Award Nomination."

- Entries will not be returned. Nominating materials may be reprinted in the NSNC newsletter, website or other media. This award recognizes outstanding civic journalism. It is not a writing contest. The award carries no monetary prize, but a $500 stipend is given to help defray the cost of attendance at the annual NSNC conference. The National Society of Newspaper Columnists sponsors the Will Rogers Humanitarian Award with support from the Will Rogers Writers Foundation and the Will Rogers Memorial Commission.
